

Mobitor Announces Partnership with Whitehenn Communications to Strengthen its Commitment to the Medical Device Industry. Mobitor signs strategic alliance and distribution agreement with Whitehenn Communication, LLC to further expand its customer service and distribution network for its SOPIC® range of products

San Ramon, CA – June 12, 2009– Mobitor Corporation, a leader in mobile and wireless enterprise business applications announced that it has entered into a new strategic alliance and distribution agreement with Whitehenn Communications, a focused provider of Windows Mobile solutions to the orthopaedic device industry. Whitehenn will have access to the entire range of Mobitor's SOPIC® product line, consisting of Mobitor's line of Windows Mobile 6.1 handheld and web applications for surgery scheduling, supply chain and inventory management. Mobitor's SOPIC and Warecom solutions are delivered and deployed as a Software as a Service (SaaS) offering and eliminating the large upfront capital cost for both hardware and software typically associated with data collection and management solutions in the Medical Device manufacturing and distribution industries. Whitehenn will also be providing all level one support functions and training which ensures high user compliance rates and a positive user experience; areas that in the past have created the greatest challenges when deploying these types of solutions.

"Whitehenn is very pleased to build a strategic partnership with Mobitor," said Chris Whitesell, SVP and Principal, Whitehenn Communications, LLC. "We believe that strengthening our relationship with Mobitor greatly enhances our mobile, wireless and distribution automation technology platform by offering products and services that better enable our clients field forces and help them increase sales, market share and profits. Given this expansion of our technology product portfolio, we are able to offer our existing and future clients an advantageous service solution."

"We have chosen to partner with Whitehenn because of its reputation, wealth of knowledge, experience, and relationships in the Medical Device industry, and to strengthen our sales through Whitehenn's client' network in North America," said Audie Hofmann, vice president of sales and business development, Mobitor.

"Adding the Mobitor SOPIC product line to our existing products and solutions portfolio creates a strong synergy with other products offered by Whitehenn Communications. Mobitor products are able to be quickly configured and deployed in a very cost-efficient method and provide insights and information that can have an immediate positive impact for a business," Whitesell added.

About Whitehenn Communications, LLC.

Whitehenn Communications is a focused provider of Windows Mobile solutions. The company offers a wide variety of services, including Datacenter Infrastructure and Hosting, Windows Mobile devices, Cellular Service, Hands-On Training, 24X7 Helpdesk and Customer Support.

Whitehenn Communications' goal is to provide end-to-end customized solutions for their Life Sciences customers. Through enterprise partnerships they have developed a robust solution set for the medical device distribution industry and continue to grow their product and organization around the Windows Mobile platform with custom applications. Please visit www.whitehenn.com for more information.